Copenhagen Airport chooses Cybercom

Copenhagen Airport has signed a framework agreement with Cybercom for consulting services in project management, IT business analysis and IT architecture. Cybercom is one of three selected providers. The contract runs for four years and is estimated to be worth in total DKK 75 million.

The airport is North Europe's most important hub for air traffic between other parts of the world and the many national and regional airports in Scandinavia and the area south of the Baltic Sea. More than 23 million travellers pass through the airport annually. More than two thousand people work with the company Copenhagen Airports A/S. In addition approximately 700 companies and 23,000 people work at the airport site.

"This is a fantastic opportunity for us. Copenhagen Airport has been an important client for a number of years. We regard the award of this contract as proof that the client values our efforts and that our cooperation will be expanded," says Ebbe Bo Hansen, Managing Director, Cybercom A/S.

"Our ambition is to grow our business in Denmark, where we see great potential in the market. Our strengthened relationship with Copenhagen Airport is a step in that direction. We currently have approximately 250 employees in the region, distributed between Copenhagen and Malmö. We also work through a network of partners, which we plan to expand further," says Niklas Flyborg, President and CEO, Cybercom.
