

Exchange NoticeIT 47/09*IT – Network backbone upgrade

In order to meet the current and future demands of increasing trading traffic and infrastructure demands, Nasdaq OMX will replace parts of its backbone network. These hardware replacements should be transparent for all members; no changes on any customers' routers will be implemented. The traffic will automatically be re-routed through the new hardware; no changes in IP addresses will be implemented. Even so, we recommend you that you confirm through a connectivity test that your Nasdaq OMX trading applications can reach our networks after the region specific upgrade has been done. (The production systems are closed as normal, so it is purely a connectivity test). See schedule below.

You do not have to report in your results if successful. If you run into problems, please contact First Line support during the testing-hours on +46 8 405 67 50. For question regarding this upgrade please contact you normal Technical Account Manager.

Each country's traffic will be logically migrated during a weekend maintenance window from the current Global Core connections onto the newly established backbone connections.

Schedule:

Finland Migration:	23/24 of May
Denmark Migration:	30/31 of May
Backup slot:	6/7 of June
Sweden Migration:	13/14 of June
UK Migration:	To be announced at a later stage
Norway migration:	To be announced at a later stage

For each country, the migration main steps of the weekend should be as follows:

Friday 8pm CET to Saturday 9am CET	Nasdaq OMX starts the migration configuration work.
Saturday 9am CET to Saturday 2pm CET	The network should be working as normal, and customers can verify the connectivity
Saturday 2pm CET	A Go-No-Go decision is being made based on possible problems from the customer verification
If OK	Migration successful.
If Not OK	Nasdaq OMX to decide to either rollback or troubleshoot. Troubleshooting activity will take place until 6pm CET at the latest. Rollback will be executed and completed by midnight Saturday. Another weekend will have to be planned for migration.
