PRESS RELEASE 17 SEPTEMBER 2009

Tricorona expands its carbon offset operations

Tricorona has recently added two new recruits to its Stockholm office, John Josefson and Erika Ågren, working within the area of voluntary carbon offsetting.

“Businesses are becoming increasingly aware of their climate impact, and also what they can do about it,” says Per Egstam, CEO for Tricorona Climate Partner. “The growth in this market is attracting talent from a wide range of sectors and disciplines, and John and Erika are a great addition to our team.”

“As the major global provider of high quality Gold Standard CDM carbon offsetting, Tricorona was a natural choice,” says John Josefson, who was previously Senior Sales Manager at a software division within IBM, “and I look forward to helping Tricorona’s customers build brand value through their climate-related initiatives.”

“With demanding customers such as ICA, Posten, Fortum, Hertz, Volvo and the United Nations Foundation, Tricorona’s focus on quality is well recognised,” says Erika Ågren, recently graduated with an Engineering degree, speciality Industrial Finance, from Linköpings University.
