Freeze period for listing of new issuers, instruments and order books

In connection with the implementation of a new trading system at Nasdaq OMX, there will be some restrictions regarding listings. For technical reasons there will be a so called freeze period, when it is not possible to register listings of new issuers, instruments and/or order books.

The freeze period will be December 3 to December 11, 2009

However, new issuers, instruments and order books could be registered prior to December 3, and be valid during the freeze period.

N.B. This concerns shares, rights, convertibles, ETFs, warrants and certificates.

We apologize for the inconvenience and hope for your understanding of the temporary restriction.
