

Exchange NoticeIT 31/10*IT – Tuesday April 6, additional testing of Oslo Børs exit from SAXESS*As from Monday April 12, Oslo Børs will no longer trade on SAXESS.

As announced earlier this year by Oslo Børs, that they are leaving from the SAXESS trading system from April 12. More info can be found at www.oslobors.no

NASDAQ OMX Nordics has already invited you to participate in the test that took place on March 30. However we will do additional testing next week on April 6 (Tuesday). NASDAQ OMX Nordics encourage our customers to participate in this test to be able to verify your local systems.

The procedure to be used in SAXESS, on Friday April 9, is to suspend the Oslo orderbooks by a Technical Stop. This procedure will be tested in the external test system SXTST3 next week on April 6

On Tuesday, April 6 the following schedule will be valid for the Oslo equity submarkets: (all times in CET)

- Continuous Trading end at 17:20
- State CLSD is at 19:00
- Members having remaining orders in any of these equity submarkets are encouraged to delete these orders
- Between 18:00-19:00 the related Oslo orderbooks will be suspended by a Technical Stop and all remaining orders will be deleted

For the bond submarkets the following times will be valid:

- COTR ends at 16:00
- CLSD at 19:00
- Members having remaining orders in any of these bond submarkets are encouraged to delete these orders
- Between 17:00-19:00 the related Oslo orderbooks will be suspended by a Technical Stop and all remaining orders will be deleted.

On Thursday, April 8

- Before 08:15 the submarkets will be released from stop state
- The time schedule for all Oslo submarkets will be set back to the normal times.

Best regards,

NASDAQ OMX Nordic