Alfa Laval wins SEK 50 million refinery order in India

Alfa Laval – a world leader in heat transfer, centrifugal separation and fluid handling – has received an order for Alfa Laval Packinox heat exchangers to be used in a refinery in India. The order value is about SEK 50 million and delivery is scheduled for 2011.

The Alfa Laval Packinox heat exchangers will be used in a catalytic process to remove sulphur from refined diesel. Alfa Laval's unique Packinox heat exchangers are widely used in the refinery and petrochemical industry as they have an unmatched energy efficiency well suited for these demanding applications.

"Four out of the five large orders Alfa Laval has received recently have been in India", says Lars Renström, President and CEO of the Alfa Laval Group. "The rapidly increasing standard of living increases the demand for diesel."

Did you know that... one single Alfa Laval Packinox heat exchanger - despite its size - is more efficient and compact than traditional techniques and can thereby replace up to four traditional shell and tube heat exchangers in this application?

About Alfa Laval

Alfa Laval is a leading global provider of specialized products and engineering solutions based on its key technologies of heat transfer, separation and fluid handling.

The company's equipment, systems and services are dedicated to assisting customers in optimizing the performance of their processes. The solutions help them to heat, cool, separate and transport products in industries that produce food and beverages, chemicals and petrochemicals, pharmaceuticals, starch, sugar and ethanol.

Alfa Laval's products are also used in power plants, aboard ships, in the mechanical engineering industry, in the mining industry and for wastewater treatment, as well as for comfort climate and refrigeration applications.
