

Correction in the Environmental permit for Fäboliden

The Supreme Environmental Court today announced a correction of its ruling regarding Lapland Goldminers AB's mine and processing plant in Fäboliden in the municipality of Lycksele in Västerbotten.

On September 17, 2008 the Supreme Environmental Court granted Lapland Goldminers the environmental permit to establish and operate a mine and process plant at Fäboliden.

-In the ruling from the Environmental Court of appeal a typing error has occurred, that gave the impression that almost an additional 40 million SEK was required for reclamation of the mine. Today's ruling has clarified the fact that the reclamation bond for the mine is limited to 0.8 million sek, says Karl-Åke Johansson, CEO.

Lapland Goldminers has previously published a feasibility study for the Fäboliden Gold Project which can be found at: www.laplandgoldminers.com
