1 Risk factors

Landsbanki Íslands hf. (hereinafter referred to as Landsbanki, the bank or the Issuer) considers the following factors liable to affect its ability to fulfil its obligations as provided for in these Bills and to be material for the purpose of assessing the market risks associated with the Bills. Most of these factors are contingencies which may or may not occur and the Issuer is not in a position to express a view on the likelihood of any such contingency occurring.

In the estimation of the Issuer, the factors described below represent the principal risks inherent in any investment in the Bills in question, but the inability of the Issuer to pay interest, principal or other amounts on or in connection with the Bills may occur or arise for reasons other than currently anticipated.

Issuer's accountability for payment

The Issuer is obliged to make payments on the Bills when due. Such obligations of the Issuer under the Bills are direct, unsecured, unconditional and unsubordinated obligations, equally ranked without any preference amongst themselves and equal to its other direct, unsecured, unconditional and unsubordinated obligations.

The Issuer has not entered into any restrictive covenants in connection with the issuance of the Bills regarding its ability to incur additional indebtedness ranking equally to the obligations under or in connection with the Bills.

Market risk

Market risk refers to the risk related to all commercial papers of the same type. The most important market risk related to Bills is changes in the level of interest rates in the relevant market. If general interest rates rise, the market price of the Bills will fall and vice versa. Interest rate risk is higher for Bills with longer maturities/duration. Investors shall study the market risk related to Bills and evaluate the impact caused by changes in the interest rate level on the Notes' market price.

Amendments to legislation

The terms and conditions of the Bills are based on Icelandic legislation in effect on the date of this Securities Note. No assurance can be given as to the impact of any possible judicial decision or amendment to legislation or administrative practice after the date of this Securities Note. Such risks are minimal in Iceland, since there is consensus on key values and the structure of the market economy.

Liquidity risk

The Bills may not have established a trading market when admitted to trading, and there is a good possibility that one may never develop. If a market does develop, it may not be very liquid. Therefore, investors may not be able to sell their Bills easily or at prices that will provide them with a yield comparable to that of similar investments that have a developed secondary market.

The Bills may not be a suitable investment for all investors

Each investor of the Bills must determine the suitability of that investment in light of his own circumstances. In particular, each potential investor should:

1. have sufficient knowledge and experience to make a meaningful evaluation of the Bills;
2. understand the merits and risks of investing in the Bills and the information contained or incorporated by reference in the prospectus, comprising of Registration Document published 22 December 2007 and made public on 24 December 2007 and this Securities Note. The potential investors should familiarize themselves thoroughly with this Prospectus;

3. have access to, and knowledge of, appropriate analytical tools to evaluate, in the context of its particular financial situation, an investment in the Bills and the impact the Bills will have on its overall investment portfolio;
4. have sufficient financial resources and liquidity to bear all of the risks of an investment in the Bills;
5. understand thoroughly the terms of the Bills and be familiar with the behaviour of any relevant indices and financial markets; and be able to evaluate (either alone or with the help of a financial adviser) possible scenarios for economic, interest rate and other factors that may affect its investment and its ability to bear the applicable risks.

2 Persons responsible

The CEOs named below, on behalf of the Issuer, hereby declare that, having taken all reasonable care to ensure that such is the case, the information contained in the Prospectus is, to the best of their knowledge, in accordance with the facts and contains no omission likely to affect its import.

Reykjavík, 9 April 2008,
