IT NoticeDerivatives – IT Information*Changes to Weekly options on Swedish shares (29/14)

Based on customer feedback, NASDAQ OMX is considering changing the technical specification for the upcoming Weekly options on Swedish shares. Members are advised that changes may involve the binary codes and the series designation format. The final technical specification and series designation will be communicated via a new Notice within short.

Due to these potential changes, the tentative launch date previously communicated no longer applies, and a new launch date will be communicated within short. We will allow time for participants to adapt to any potential changes in the technical specification.

We apologize for any inconvenience caused.
