

HANZA signs manufacturing agreement with Saab Dynamics

HANZA has signed a multiyear production contract with Saab Dynamics containing both mechanics and electronics.

HANZA Holding AB (publ), Sweden's leading business partner in manufacturing solutions, develops the cooperation with security and defence company Saab Dynamics thru a multi-year agreement with an unofficial order value.

The agreement covers both mechanics and electronics, and is intended to provide production to a number of HANZA factories initially in Sweden.

HANZA's business model is based on increasing growth and profitability for product owners by providing effective manufacturing solutions.

"We have cooperation with several other business areas within Saab Defence since before, it will be exciting to develop also Dynamics", said Thomas Lindstrom, Vice President Sales & Marketing HANZA.

Saab Dynamics offers ground combat weapons, missile systems, torpedoes, sensor systems, unmanned underwater vehicles and signature management systems for the defense and remotely operated vehicles and safety systems for the offshore industry and nuclear power plants.
