Disciplinary Committee decides to delist CISL Gruppen from First North

The Disciplinary Committee at OMX Nordic Exchange Stockholm has decided that CISL Gruppen's shares shall no longer be traded at First North due to CISL providing the market with misleading information about the company. The delisting will become effective within one week.

The shares of CISL Gruppen AB are traded on First North, the alternative market operated by OMX Nordic Exchange Stockholm. According to the rules and regulations for First North, a company whose shares are traded on this marketplace must have an organization and staffing that can cope with providing relevant information about the company to the market. In addition, the information must be accurate, relevant and reliable and no circumstances may be omitted that can influence assessments of the company. The information shall be published as soon as possible. The regulations also state that if a company, in essential respects, breaks the rules or no longer meets the requirements, the company's shares can be delisted.

The Committee has established that CISL, continuously during 2006 and 2007, submitted excessively positive information about the company, while negative information was withheld from the market. CISL also neglected to submit information on holdings of 150 million of subscription rights in an associate company and published information concerning the Board's decision pertaining to two share issues far too late. Moreover, the CISL Gruppen shares have been placed on the First North's observation list for eight months – such a position shall normally not exceed six months – and it is not possible to predict when the company could be returned to its ordinary position in the share list.

The Exchange's Disciplinary Committee has decided that the CISL shares shall no longer be traded on First North. The final day for trading will be February 12, 2008.

About the Disciplinary Committee | The role of OMX Nordic Exchange in Stockholm's Disciplinary Committee is to consider suspicions regarding whether Exchange Members, brokers or listed companies have breached the rules and regulations applying on the Exchange. If the Exchange suspects that a member, broker or listed company has acted in breach of the Exchange's rules and regulations, the matter is reported to the Disciplinary Committee. The Exchange investigates the suspicions and pursues the matter and the Disciplinary Committee issues a ruling regarding possible sanctions. The sanctions possible for listed companies are a warning, a fine or delisting. The fines that may be imposed range from one to 15 annual fees. The sanctions possible for Exchange Members are a warning, a fine or debarment, while brokers may be warned or have their brokerage license rescinded. The Disciplinary Committee's Chairman and Deputy Chairman must be lawyers with experience of serving as judges. At least two of the other members of the Committee must have in-depth insight into the workings of the securities market.
