

Ixonos plans to increase its efficiency by streamlining its production site structure

Ixonos starts co-operational negotiations in order to secure its production efficiency. The negotiations concern the personnel in Jyväskylä, excluding those who perform their work at customer's premises.

The goal of the co-operational negotiations is to adjust operational costs through enhancing the production efficiency, and by focusing software development to company's other production sites.

It is estimated that the negotiations will result in closure of the Jyväskylä office and in job terminations for a maximum of 35 persons.
