Change in management at Rejlers

Rebecka Oxelström, Head of Communication, is leaving Rejlers for new tasks. This spring she will start her new position as Head of Communication for the Nobel Center.

Rebecka Oxelström has worked at Rejlers since 2012. She has been implementing a comprehensive and noticed Nordic brand work together with a number of employees in Sweden, Norway and Finland. Rebecka has also structured and planned the company's internal and external communications. In the autumn of 2014 she, along with the company's Group Management, helped to develop a new vision and new targets for where Rejlers will be in 2020.

- Rebecka has positively contributed to Rejlers' communications and branding work, carried out in recent years. I would like to thank her for good cooperation and I wish her good luck in her new job, says Peter Rejler.
