Press release: Nexam Chemical's Board of Directors has decided to postpone the change of trading venue for the company share.

For the time being, Nexam Chemical postpones the change of trading venue for the company share, as previously announced. Instead all focus will be put into developing the business.

The Board of Directors has, for the moment, decided not to apply for a listing on NASDAQ Stockholm Small Cap. Nexam Chemical will instead focus and put all energy on commercializing its products. The preparations performed so far for a listing on NASDAQ Stockholm Small Cap will still benefit the company and will facilitate a future change of trading venue.
