Rejlers is acquiring Caruna's project monitoring business

Rejlers is acquiring the distribution company, Caruna's, project monitoring business in Finland with 26 employees today. The acquisition will be completed on 1 September 2015.

The business Rejlers is acquiring includes services for project monitoring, inspection, overhaul, quality control as well as safety and environmental coordination for all of Caruna's network areas.

At the same time, Rejlers has signed an agreement with Caruna regarding the procurement of project monitoring services. The agreement is valid for three years.

"Caruna is at the cutting edge regarding the development of electricity distribution services in Finland. Rejlers has great opportunities to develop the project monitoring business throughout Finland. Moreover, our employees are obtaining development and career opportunities in Rejlers, which provides services in more areas," Caruna's CEO, Ari Koponen, says.

"The acquisition strengthens our position as a market-leading, technical consultant company in the distribution sector. Thanks to the acquisition, we can develop the market for project monitoring services and meet the distribution companies' growing investment on completely new premises. We are creating a flexible and scalable project monitoring market where the best work methods are continuously refined and developed with the business," Rejlers Finland's CEO, Seppo Sorri, concludes.
