Cybercom takes home order worth SEK 80 million

Cybercom received an order for mobile services development from a leading mobile device manufacturer. The order is worth SEK 80 million over a 15-month period, with option for contract extension.

"The order is strategically vital for Cybercom," says Patrik Boman, president and CEO of the Cybercom Group. "This customer demonstrated trust by allowing us to take responsibility for business critical parts of its operation. The order, worth 80 million kronor, covers a 15-month period, with possible extension. This order is the single largest order in Cybercom's history and it gives us opportunities for additional assignments."

Many more economically advantageous services are being created in the mobility area. End users quickly adopt services for business and pleasure. Mobile services are becoming increasingly key for companies that want to reach and communicate with customers worldwide on a 24/7 basis. Right now, Cybercom is a leading mobile solution provider with extensive experience in driving and developing new mobile services and state-of-the-art propositions.

"Customers strive for membership among the elite mobile device suppliers," says Boman. "To achieve this, they've made it perfectly clear that mobile services development is a success factor."
