1 RISK FACTORS

1.1 GENERAL

The following factors may affect the Issuer's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes and/or they are of importance when evaluating the market risks associated with the Notes. Most of these risk factors are contingencies which may or may not occur and do not necessarily have an impact on the Notes.

The factors described below represent the principal risks inherent in investing in the Notes but the inability of the issuer to pay interest, principal or other amounts on or in connection with any Notes may occur for other reasons that do not currently exist, that are not presently considered material, or of which the Issuer is unaware. The statement below regarding the risks of holding any Notes is therefore not exhaustive and prospective investors should base their decision about investing in any Notes on their own independent review and such professional advice as they deem appropriate.

1.2 ISSUER'S LIABILITY TO MAKE PAYMENTS

The Issuer is liable to make payments when due on the Notes. The Notes constitute direct, unconditional, unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Issuer and rank pari passu among themselves and equally with its other direct, unsecured, unconditional and unsubordinated obligations. Thus, they rank behind secured obligations and other priority claims but have priority over subordinate and remaining obligations.

The Notes are subject to credit risk. Credit risk is essentially the risk that the principal will not be repaid by the Issuer. If the Issuer fails to repay the principal, the Issuer will default on the Notes. As with other debt instruments investors must evaluate the issuer's liquidity and capacity to meet his obligations. They must also evaluate whether the premium on the Notes is in line with the risk they involve.

The Issuer is not subject to any kind of limits on further borrowings and can therefore take on further debt with equal ranking as the Notes in this issue.

1.3 MARKET RISK

Market risk refers to the risk related to all commercial papers of the same type. The most important market risk related to Notes is changes in the level of interest rates in the relevant market. If general interest rates rise, the market price of the Notes will fall and vice versa. Interest rate risk is higher for Notes with longer maturities/duration. Investors shall study the market risk related to Notes and evaluate the impact caused by changes in the interest rate level on the Notes' market price.

1.4 CHANGES IN LAW

The terms and conditions of the Notes are based on Icelandic law in force as of the date of this Securites Note. No assurance can be given as to the impact of any possible judicial decision or change to Icelandic law or administrative practice after the date of this Securities Note.

1.5 TRADING IN THE SECONDARY MARKET

Trading with the Notes in the secondary market needs to be active and the volume sufficient for investors to profit from their investment. The possibility exists that investors will not be able to sell their Notes easily or only at a discount to comparable securities from other issuers.

1.6 THE NOTES ARE NOT SUITABLE FOR ALL INVESTORS

Investors must make their own decision on whether investing in the Notes is suitable for them. In particular, the following must be kept in mind:

1. Investors must possess sufficient knowledge and experience to adequately evaluate the Notes and the Issuer's liquidity.
2. Investors must appreciate the risks related to investment in the Notes and familiarize themselves thoroughly with the information provided in the prospectus or other documents about the Issuer which are publicly available.
3. Investors must be able to estimate what impact an investment in the Notes has on their asset position and financial resources. Investors must have sufficient resources and liquidity to bear all of the risks of an investment in the Notes.
4. Investors must study and understand the terms that apply to the Notes and be familiar with the behaviour of the financial markets.
5. Investors must be able to evaluate (either on their own accord or with the aid of advisor) the impact of business cycles, changes in the level of interest rates and other comparable factors that may affect investment in the Notes.
