Ingenico Group and Intel to accelerate the deployment of secure connected devices in retail environments

Solution strengthens payment security in open platforms

Today, Ingenico Group (Euronext: FR0000125346 - ING) announced that it was advancing collaboration with Intel in creating for retailers a secure connectivity path from the cash register to the payment terminal, end-to-end. The Group has achieved the first implementation of the Intel® Data Protection Technology for Transactions solution into Ingenico mobile POS.

Intel® DPT for Transactions is designed to secure both financial and consumer data from the moment a transaction is initiated. Combining the Ingenico mobile solution and the mobile tablet delivers a strong connectivity channel between the cash register and the payment terminal and prevents security breaches.

"Our pledge is to secure the retail environment and facilitate payment management. Through our joint efforts, Intel and Ingenico Group now can provide end-to-end protection," commented Michel Léger, EVP Innovation, Ingenico Group. "This solution offers retailers a powerful combination of authentication technology and scalable architecture to maximize payment security, and we are looking forward to continuing our fruitful collaboration with Intel with a view to develop a strong ecosystem for innovation in the world of connected devices."

"Ingenico Group and Intel both recognize the transaction protections in place today focus on consumer's credit card information," stated Joe Jensen, vice president of Intel's Retail Solutions Division. "This focus has caused a shift in the malware community efforts toward seizing personally identifiable information. Intel® Data Protection Technology for Transactions is unique in protecting all the information running through transaction networks, highlighting the best of what Intel technology can do to secure the evolving retail customer experience."

Ingenico Group will be at the Money 20/20 Expo 2015, 25-28 October 2015, Las Vegas. For more information, please stop by booth #2108.
