

Geveko acquires the roadmarking company Dartom in Poland

Geveko has acquired the contract roadmarking company Dartom with a turnover which amounted to approximately SKr 15 million in 2006. Dartom is located in Bialystok in East Poland. Dartom will be integrated with the Geveko subsidiary Cleanosol AB, who among others is responsible for the operations in Poland. Dartom and the contract roadmarking companies GiK and Technom acquired this summer, will together form the second largest player in Poland with an estimated marketshare of 25% and a turnover of SKr 60 million. The companies have important strategic and geographical positions in Poland covering areas where several road projects are under construction and where infrastructure investments will continue during coming years.

“The acquisition of Dartom is the fourth during 2007 in Poland and Slovakia. Together with other Geveko companies in the East European countries we will benefit from economies of scale and form a competitive road marking concept as well as strengthen our leading market positions in the fast growing markets in East Europe” says Hans Ljungkvist CEO and Managing Director of Geveko.
