Risks and Reward Profile

The Risk and Reward Profile includes a “synthetic risk and reward indicator” (SRRI), which is a risk category calculated based on volatility of returns. The higher the category, the greater the potential reward, but might also experience a greater risk losing money. The lowest category does not mean risk free.

The risk indicator was calculated using historical performance data of last year and may not be a reliable indication of the Fund’s future risk and reward profile. The Fund is in the 4th category. This means that the risk category shown is not guaranteed and it is a high possibility it may change over time (the Fund can be ascribed to another category).

Below are the risks, which may impact the value of the Fund but might not be adequately captured while calculating the risk indicator:

Counterparty risk. The risk that the counterparty shall fail to perform its obligations and Fund may expose financial loss. Efforts are made to minimize this risk by concluding transactions with reliable and experienced financial institutions.

Liquidity risk. The risk resulting in difficulty to buy or sell the assets of the Fund in the market at a desired time and at desired price.

Operational risk. The risk to experience disruption or loss due to operational systems’ and human errors or other risks in service processes, including political and legal risks.

Currency exchange risk. The risk to experience high fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rate, which can reduce the value of Fund’s investments.

To reduce risks and achieve greater investment return, Fund’s manager may use derivative financial instruments.
